The work of repainting the motor cars of the electric railway began yesterday. Mr. William Shepard has the contract, and as the work will be well done it will require some time. As each car is completed it will be supplied with a Standard Heater, which consumes anthracite coal. The heater will be placed on the seat about midway, the car, occupying the space of one passenger. This will insure perfect comfort to the patrons of the road, even in the coldest weather.

WILLIAM S. SAMUEL.

Death This Morning of This Most Popular Gentleman.

Mr. Will S. Samuel, born in Poplar Plains in July, 1861, died in Maysville at 3:20 Thursday morning, November 15th, 1894, at the home of his brother, Dr. J. H. Samuel.

Mr. Samuel's health began failing several years ago, and in October, 1893, he came to this city.

Soon after his arrival he suffered a stroke of paralysis, and for more than twelve months he had been a patient sufferer, rarely leaving his bed.

Wednesday afternoon at half past 3 o'clock he was seized with convulsions and these continued until death came as a happy relief.

It may be said with the utmost truth that Will Samuel was the most popular man in his county, and had he yielded to the importunities of friends he could have had any office within the gift of his people.

The remains will be conveyed to Flemingsburg early Saturday morning, where funeral services will be held in the Christian Church at 11 o'clock a. m., by Elder W. S. Irvin, after which the body will be laid to rest in the beautiful cemetery at that place.

WHAT IS COMING.

Scientists Figure Out the World's Population in 1994.

A master of statistics has made a prediction of what the world will be at the end of another one hundred years. First—the climate will not have changed sensibly.

Secondly—In population, Europe will have 780,000,000 of inhabitants, Asia 1,000,000,000, while America will have reached 685,000,000, Australia 30,000,000 and Africa 100,000,000.

The chief increase will be in America first, and in Europe next. In the former, Spanish America will have the heaviest increase. The diminution of increase in population, which is already noticed in France, will follow in Germany, Italy and England.

As for the different Nations of the time, Russia will have 340,000,000 of population, Germany 115,000,000 and France only 56,000,000. China will have passed 550,000,000, and in all probability will still remain outside of modern civilization.

In America these figures have the greatest meaning. The United States will have 490,000,000, Mexico and Brazil 150,000,000, Canada 40,000,000, the Argentine Republic and Chili 30,000,000.

The two civilized Nations which will have the greatest power will be the United States and Russia, having together over 700,000,000 inhabitants.

The English language will be spoken by more than 500,000,000, while the Russian language will still be little current among other Nations, on account of its structure and alphabet.

Spanish and Portuguese will come next, with 235,000,000, while French, including the inhabitants of Indo-China, Canada and Algiers, who speak that language, will, like German, represent 100,000,000 only. In this way the English will have the advantage of all.

These predictions, however fantastic they may appear, are based on a careful study of the statistics of this century, together with all the probability for the next, which can be foreseen. The illusory element comes from the uncertain political future of the different Nations.

DOUBLE NUMBER!

Thanksgiving!

Yes, let's all be thankful—The Republicans for success, The Democrats because it was no worse,

And Merchants, Manufacturers and Professional People because there'll be no more "pulling" and "clawing" in Congress, and that everybody can now settle down to business.

The change has come.

And with it there is bound to be renewed activity.

If you want a share of the general prosperity, invite THE LEDGER's free thousand readers to patronize you.

On Thanksgiving Day, November 29th, THE LEDGER will issue a special double number, and advertisers are cordially invited to use its columns to make known their wares.

J. HAMILTON, Agent.

"She."

"She," A. Y. Pearson's big production, will appear this evening at Washington Opera-house.

The world famous romance of Rider Haggard is too well known to need much outline of plot, but it may be said that the book is closely followed, and, although at times it is somewhat weird, there is a clever vein of comedy interwoven through the whole which not only pleases but relieves the monotony.

For scenery and scenic effects the author's ideas have been thoroughly studied and carefully supplied. The last act where Ayasha steps into the mysterious fire and is reduced from a beautiful woman to the hideous condition of a mummy produces a sensation to be long remembered.

BOOMING!

SOME SEQUELS TO THE LATE REPUBLICAN VICTORY.

Returning Prosperity—Factories Starting Up—Work for American Workmen.

[Before the election THE LEDGER argued that Republican success meant a restoration of confidence, the opening of American factories and workshops, the return of business to its wonted channels, profitable and steady employment for American workmen, and an era of renewed prosperity all along the line. That the hopes held out by THE LEDGER were not false ones is being fully demonstrated. Below are a few evidences of the business revival that trends on the heels of the great Republican victory.—EDITOR.]

Manchester's new stove foundry will soon be in full operation.

The Chartiers Steel Company at Homestead, Pa., will put in a tinplate mill to cost $125,000.

The Manse-Bruning Shoe Company of Cincinnati, capital stock $100,000, was incorporated Monday.

The preliminary work has begun on the great blast furnaces of the Carnegie Steel Company at Duquesne. It is estimated they will cost $750,000. The furnaces will stand South of the steel works, and their construction will require fully a year. They will be the largest and the most complete in the United States, and will give employment to 1,200 men. The ground on which the plant will stand contains fifty-four acres.

A firm in Wheeling, W. Va., has been figuring for some time with the Lloyd Booth Company of Youngstown, O., about putting in a tinmill in the former city. Definite action was delayed, pending the result of Tuesday's election. Saturday the Youngstown firm received a telegram from the Wheeling people saying they would be ready to close the contract for the building of the plant within a few days.

The officers of the Amalgamated Association were notified Monday that on account of the elections the tinplate manufacturers who wanted a big reduction will now agree to arbitrate the matter, and may not insist on the wage cut. These announcements have had a good effect on labor. The manufacturers do not say the elections have had anything to do with the improvements, but the workmen say that they can see that they have without being told so.

OBJECTED TO THE REFEREE.

A Blackmailing Woman Gets a Neat Little Setback.

A good story is told in Kate Field's Washington of a prominent Federal official who was in office during the first Cleveland Administration, and his reception of a woman who endeavored to levy blackmail upon him. This woman came into his office one day, and after tearfully reciting her tale of woe and wrong to him and an amused on-looker—who had tried ineffectually to leave the room and let the couple attend to their own affairs—she demanded immediately a check for $100.

"But I cannot give you that amount. I haven't got it," said the official.

"Well, then, I'll tell all about our dealings, and you won't show up very well," said the woman threateningly.

"Oh, I don't believe you can make anybody believe such a tale as you would tell against me," came the unperturbed reply.

"Oh, I can't, can't I?" sneered the woman. "Well, I just need that $100, and you've got to give it to me or I'll let out the whole business. Now, are you ready to pony up?"

The official pondered a moment.

"The case would look pretty black against me, wouldn't it?" he said reflectively.

"Yes, I'll see to that," was the woman's still more threatening answer.

"Well," said the official, after a few moments' thought, and with a suspicious twinkle in his eye, "I guess I see a way out of the difficulty. You see my wife holds the pursestrings of the family. Now, you just go to her and tell her the whole story, and cry about it, and she might give you the amount you want. Good day," and he bowed the obnoxious caller out of the office, while she was too dumfounded to protest.

She never bothered him again, apparently admiring his nerve.
